

What is a Family Readiness Group?

The FRG is an organization of Family members, civilians, and Soldiers belonging to the unit that together provide information and assistance to others in the group.

“The beautiful thing about learning is that no one can take it away from you.”

B.B. King

- FRGs are official command-sponsored organizations established at brigade, battalion and company levels.
- FRGs provide a network of communication between the Family members, chain of command, and community resources.
- FRGs create a climate of mutual support within the group.
- The FRG program involves organization, training, administrative support, and command interest from military organizations, in conjunction with support from volunteers, oriented toward assisting unit Family members during deployment by the unit.
- During periods of non-deployment, they actively develop relationships and procedures that can be implemented when required.

Registration is required for all trainings and begins one month prior to the date of training.
